NUTRITION EDUCATION

FoodWise Nutrition Education

The UW-Madison Division of Extension FoodWise is a program that provides evidence-based strategies designed to promote healthy eating for communities, and low-income families through nutrition education. It is federally funded by the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program-Education (SNAPEd) and the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP).

Engaging The Community to Improve Nutrition Outcomes

During the period of 2021, 17,985 educational contacts were made in two counties, reaching 1,773 non-duplicated persons at locations such as Acelero Headstart, COP House, Racine Unified School District Schools, and Racine County Food Banks. Participants learn to make healthy food choices, to manage their food dollars, and handle their food safely. FoodWise also worked collectively with community partners to increase healthy food access and physical activity opportunities where our participants live, learn, work, shop, and play.

The Benefits of Building Federal and County Partnerships

Much of the cost to provide FoodWise educational programming is paid with the $388,486.18 in federal funds that FoodWise is bringing into Racine County during this current year. FoodWise federal dollars pay the salaries, fringe benefits, and direct teaching expenses for FoodWise colleagues in the county office. FoodWise relies upon its County partners to provide office space and related overhead costs, as well as basic operating costs and resources such as internet service, IT support and basic software, office telephones, shared supplies, and equipment in the Extension Office. These contributions from the County are essential to FoodWise's work and presence in the County Extension Offices.
